Brave New World - AP English Literature & Composition Though his hopes of a medical career were dashed when an eye disease almost blinded him at 16, he soon built a career as a writer. He wrote prolifically throughout the 1920's, publishing numerous essays, sketches, caricatures, and four novels. Huxley published Brave New World, his most successful novel, in 1932. Brave New World Study Guide | Literature Guide | LitCharts published Brave New World, one of the most controversial, dark and disturbing prophesies of a new world devoid of human emotion and family, and dominated by technology. In Brave New World, Huxley ruminates on the "advancement" of society and technology, and whether having "more" will be the end of life as we know it. Brave New World Final Huxley said that Brave New World was inspired by the utopian novels of H. G. Wells, including A Modern Utopia (1905), and Men Like

Gods (1923). Wells's hopeful vision of the future's possibilities gave Huxley the idea to begin writing a parody of the novels, which became Brave New World. Brave New World - Wikipedia Introduction. Huxley wrote Brave New World "between the wars" — after the upheaval of the First World War and before World War II. British society was officially at peace, but the social effects of the Great War, as it was then called, were becoming apparent. Huxley and his contemporaries wrote about changes in national feeling, questioning of long-held social and moral assumptions, and the move toward more equality among the classes and between the sexes.
